Terry Gross of Fresh Air Goes Off Air at McCarter Theatre May 5

PHILADELPHIA, March 28, 2013 —Peabody Award-winning host of WHYY-FM's Fresh Air, Terry Gross, will be at the historic McCarter Theatre in Princeton, NJ on Sunday, May 5, from 3:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. for Off Air with Fresh Air: An Afternoon with Terry Gross.

During this rare public appearance, Gross will share her adventures hosting Fresh Air and play interview clips of times when things didn't go as she expected. She'll provide insight into her process and share stories of interesting circumstances that have occurred throughout her career. After her talk, guests are invited to give Gross a taste of her own medicine during a live question-and-answer session.

"Listening to Terry on air is always a treat, but attending one of her rare public appearances is something else entirely," said Bill Marrazzo, WHYY president and CEO. "We hope that bringing more special events like this across the bridge demonstrates our deepening commitment to serving our New Jersey audiences."

Prior to her on-stage appearance, Gross will attend a VIP reception at McCarter Theatre from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. VIP tickets entitle guests to a catered reception and "the best seats in the house" during Gross's lecture. Space is limited for the VIP reception. VIP reception and lecture ticket package is $80. Regular tickets start at $25. WHYY members receive 10% off all ticket types. For more information and to register, visit WHYY.org/events or call the McCarter Theatre's box office at 609-258-2787.
