Marty Moss-Coane of Radio Times Goes on the Road to Chestnut Hill
Event features discussion with NPR's Morning Edition's Steve Inskeep

PHILADELPHIA, May 22, 2015 — Award-winning radio host Marty Moss-Coane will be at Chestnut Hill College on Thursday, June 11 from 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. to record a program for WHYY-FM's Radio Times with Marty Moss-Coane.

Marty will sit down with Steve Inskeep, host of NPR's Morning Edition, to discuss his new book, "Jacksonland: President Andrew Jackson, Cherokee Chief John Ross, and a Great American Land Grab." Inskeep is known for asking probing questions of everyone from presidents to warlords to musicians—he has a passion for telling the stories of the less famous. Event attendees are invited to participate during a Q&A session. The discussion will be broadcast on WHYY-FM (90.9).

"Marty has contributed intelligent conversation on issues of the Delaware Valley, as well as issues of national and global concern, for more than 25 years," said Bill Marrazzo, WHYY president and CEO. "Each weekday, Marty helps listeners think about, discuss and understand the issues of our times. Attendees at this event will experience first-hand Marty's intelligence, preparedness and ability to ask good questions."

Tickets start at only $20 for WHYY members. Non-members may purchase two tickets for $90, including a one-year WHYY membership. For more information and to register, visit WHYY.org/speakers or call 215-351-0511 during regular business hours.
